The Winning Circle Series

We have drawn inspiration from the teachings of mindfulness, clinical psychology, the physiological principles behind neuronal communication and brain dynamics, Western and Eastern religions, team and individual sports, our families, friends, and the community around us. This brought about the development of a series of educational and empowerment curriculums: The Winning Circle Series!

Our research into the creation of this program drew us deep within our past experiences, published articles and books on the concepts and issues surrounding reintegration, conferences and talking with others who have been through it all, evidence-based practices for mitigating dysfunctional behaviors, and so much more. Today, after much time carefully deciphering and piecing together how we and others have changed our lives, we believe Winning Ways will prove a boundless journey for all of those individuals we work with.
